The shaukeen's income is taxed at 13 per cent and they get their living from their farm but it is up to the government to allocate their income to the village. "There is no such system in India. The government spends Rs 5,000 crore per annum for the rural needs of the state. This means that even a shaukeen is not supposed to be earning any money," says Shaukeen's farmer Gautam Chand. "I think India needs better social security systems. What if I have a child in your village? I am going to be forced to sell my land to make up for my child's needs."..
